BLOODHOUNDS WORK IN SCHOOL ROBBERY OF TUESDAY NIGHT

PRESBY'S DOGS ARE SUMMONED
FORM ROCK FALLS THIS MORNING.

ON NORTH AND SOUTH SIDES

Many Desks Were Broken Open —
Cash and Pocket Knives Were Stolen.

For the second time within two weeks Harry Presby's bloodhounds were summoned here from Rock Falls this morning, in an effort to obtain a clue to miscreants who broke into the north and south side school buildings Tuesday night, breaking open teachers' desks and stealing pocket knives and cash somewhat over $10. The dogs followed trails on both sides of the river but aside from centering suspicion on certain parties their work was fruitless, probably because a full day, during which hundreds of children crossed the trails many times, elapsed before they were called.

Will Close Buildings.

School authorities on both sides of the river, believing the work that of local characters, stated this morning that if the buildings are again broken into they will not be opened and no one will be allowed on the premises until the dogs have been allowed to work on a fresh scent.

In North Dixon both high school and grade buildings were entered, 14 desks being broken open and two so badly damaged they are ruined.

Boy Saw Two Near Building.

Investigation in North Dixon revealed that Elmer Snyder, a lad living across the street from the building, had seen two boys or young men on the fire escape of the east building about 9 p. m. Tuesday but as he was on his way to mail a letter he did not wait to see what they did.

During the investigation yesterday some Vietrola keys the thieves had taken, probably in the belief that they would unlock desks, were found in the school yard, near the southwestern corner of the lot. Each of the three hounds followed a well-defined trail to the spot and lost it, giving rise to the theory that the miscreants had entered an automobile or buggy there.

A Word to Parents.

Prof. Hagen of the North Dixon schools, in an interview with a Telegraph representative this morning, said that if the investigation of the robberies has demonstrated nothing else it had shown that Dixon parents should take more interest in the whereabouts of their children at night.

French Troops Have Great Confidence In Their Ability To Beat The Germans

French Front, May 8 (Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Two pages from the diary of a French soldier who was a member of an infantry unit during the attack on the German lines in Champagne, which began on April 16 this year, will serve to demonstrate his feeling of confidence in the French troops in their power to beat the Germans. The extract reads:

4:45 a. m.: A pale light whitens slightly the sky heavy with clouds. Since yesterday evening at 6 cannons have thundered uninterruptedly, the sound resembling the rolling of a giant drum. All night wind and rain. A shower has just stopped. The communication trench is full of water and we sink into mud up to our ankles.

5:30 a. m.: At the colonel's post. He chats with his adjutant and two captains, cheerful, smiling young men already wearing their steel helmets, belts and equipment, with iron-shod walking sticks in their hands, ready to start. Outside the day breaks until little by little the wan light spreads over the grey plain. The two captains leave to join their companies after taking leave of the colonel, who shakes hands with them, remarking: "All right, go on. I'll join you out there."

5:45 a. m.: In the jumping-off parallel. In the growing light the men

TRY ROBBERY AT ROSBROOKS

Mrs. C. J. Rosbrook Heard Felon Cutting Rear Screen Door

Robbers attempted an entrance at the C. J. Rosbrook home last night, but when they cut the wire screen on a rear door Mrs. Rosbrook heard and frightened them away. This morning the piece of screen the would-be thieves had cut from the door was found in the yard and it was hoped the Rock Falls bloodhounds, which were working in the vicinity of the south side school, could obtain scent from this screen, but it had been handled by others, consequently could not be used.

U. S. PRIVATES GET MORE PAY

Will Draw $30 Monthly Instead of $15 After June First.

Sergt. Moran, U. S. A., in charge of the recruiting office at Sterling, was here today distributing information concerning his work. He shows orders from the war department that on and after June 1 privates will receive $30 per month instead of $15, which it is believed will greatly aid enlistments. The officer is now recruiting men from 18 to 40 years of age for the period of the war only.

TURN ATTENTION TO INSTRUCTING THOSE WHO MUST REGISTER

PROVOST MARSHAL CROWDER IS SUES BULLETIN TO ALL MEN
FROM 21 TO 31.

NO EXEMPTION BOARDS NOW

Men Can Simply State the Grounds
Upon Which Claim for Exemption Is Based.

All preliminary arrangements for the selective conscription registration of June 5 in Lee county have been completed and from now until the big day the registrars may have opportunity to study the instructions given them at the meeting called by the county registration board yesterday.

Those who need instruction now are the men between the ages of 21 and 31, who must register on that day, and for their guidance Provost Marshal Crowder has issued the following instructions. It would be well for every man between the ages designated to study them carefully before June 5. The provost marshal reminds men seeking exemption from service in America's new selective service army because they supported one or more dependents that they must be sure the person they have in mind is "solely" dependent on them. Otherwise they must not "hide behind petticoats and children." Men with 15 children or with no legs are not exempt from registration. This warning was embodied in an official guide explaining how registration questions should be answered.

Exemption boards will have sole authority to relieve men from military service. Because of the general confusion the government is making no announcements relating to appointment of the exemption boards. That bridge will be crossed when it is reached, and it will not be reached until registration is over.

Use Care in Answers.

Of the 12 questions all eligibles must answer on registration day Gen. Crowder and his aids expect the most knotty problem will arise from the last, which reads:

"Do you claim exemption from draft (specify grounds)?"

The official guide explains this question as follows:

"Because you claim exemption it by no means follows you are exempt. For the information of the war department you should make a claim now if you intend to prosecute it. Some physicians will be exempted because of their occupations or offices, some because they have relatives dependent on them for support. Your answer touching these things will be important in supporting the claim you now intend to make in your answer to the present questions. Be sure, therefore, that the grounds you now state are in conformity with your answers to questions 7 and 8."

Exemption Question Replies.

"In stating grounds you claim as exempting you use one of the following terms:

"If you claim to be an executive, legislative, or judicial officer of the state or nation, name your office and say whether it is an office of the state or nation."

"If you claim to be a member of a religious sect whose creed forbids its members to participate in war in any form simply name the sect."

"If you are employed in the transmission of the United States mails or as an artificer or workman in an armory, arsenal or navy yard of the United States, or if you are a mariner"

BELGIANS AGAIN DEPORTED

Germany Suspended Slavery, It Seems, Only When Slaves Weren't Needed.

Havre, May 24.—The Germans have resumed the deportations of Belgians, according to information received by the Belgian government. Three thousand persons are reported to have been deported from the suburbs of Brussels since the beginning of May. The deportation of Belgians was reported to have ceased last month, owing to the representations made to Berlin by Pope Benedict and protests from some of the German socialists. On May 14, however, the Belgian government learned that all men in the Belgian province of Luxembourg were being deported and that a census of women was being taken by the German authorities. The census was for the purpose of replacing male agricultural workers by women.

Rome, May 24.—The Italians yesterday broke through the Austro-Hungarian lines from Castagnavizza to the sea, taking over 9,000 prisoners. The enemy was surprised by the Italians' brilliant assault and counter attacks were repulsed.

130 Italian airplanes dropped ten tons of bombs on the enemy, and British batteries co-operated in the bombardment. The Italians captured Jamiano and a number of strong forts.

British transport Transylvania 14,000 tons gross, was torpedoed May 4, with a loss of 413 lives, it was officially announced by the British admiralty today. The Transylvania was an Anchor Line steamship built in 1914 for passenger traffic between New York and the Mediterranean and accommodated 2450 passengers. She had been in the service of the British government since May, 1915.

French Lost Ship.
Paris announced today that the French liner Sontay, 7300 tons, from Saloniki for Marseilles, with 344 passengers, had been torpedoed April 15 with a loss of 45 lives. Capt. Mayes went down with the ship.

Aerial Raid On England.
Four or five German airplanes raided the eastern counties of England last night, London says. Four penetrated inland and dropped a few bombs in the country districts but were apparently unable to locate position because of rainclouds. One man was killed in a Norfolk village, but property damage was small.

French Take Many Captives
In the region of Vaucor Plateau, German counter attacks were repulsed by the French last night with heavy German losses. Since May 1st the French have taken 8500 prisoners in this district.

THE ANSWER.

There is but one answer to every question concerning who must register June 5th. It is: "Every man between the ages of 21 and 30 years, inclusive, whether native born, an alien, or even an alien enemy, must register June 5. This applies also to invalids and persons who are ill. COL. ROOT AND HIS AIDES, COMMISSIONED TO RECOMMEND SITE FOR PERMANENT CAMP FOR U.S. CONSCRIPTS LOOK OVER COLONY GROUNDS

WILL ARRIVE IN STERLING ON BURLINGTON FROM MOLINE FRIDAY MORNING AND WILL BE MET BY COMMITTEE OF DIXON MEN IN AUTOMOBILES WHO WILL BRING THEM IMMEDIATELY TO DIXON—GO TO COL. LOWDEN'S FARM NEAR OREGON IN AFTERNOON—LOOKING FOR A CAMP TO TRAIN 28,000 SOLDIERS OF UNCLE SAM'S NEW ARMY—DIXON PROMOTERS ARE HOPEFUL THIS CITY MAY BE SELECTED.

LOCATION OF CANTONMENT HERE WOULD BE GREAT BOOST FOR DIXON

Rock Island, Ill.

W. B. Brinton,
Dixon, Illinois.

Board of army officers investigating cantonment sites will arrive in Sterling over Burlington Friday morning to inspect your site in the forenoon and Governor Lowden's site in the afternoon. Meet us at Sterling on arrival of train. Notify John Devine and Engineer Wheeler of Sterling, and all concerned.

ROOT, Colonel.

The above telegram marks the culmination of a great endeavor to land the cantonment at Dixon, which has been under headway for some time, and for which Mr. Brinton and other members of the Chamber of Commerce have been working quietly.

The investigating committee will be met at Sterling by a party of representative Dixon men, who will go to that city in automobiles, and will at once bring them to Dixon to look over the colony grounds and adjacent territory.

Dixon has a very good opportunity of being selected for the site of the United States Military Training Camp which the government will establish somewhere in Illinois for the training of 28,000 conscripted soldiers from this state. If the camp is established here it will be on the grounds of the epileptic colony and on additional adjoining land. Commencing in September the grounds will be occupied by an army of 28,000 men and officers, who would probably be there for six months and would then be replaced by another draft of the same number, and so on indefinitely.

The location of this training camp would mean a great boom in Dixon if this city is selected. The payroll for the men and officers would amount to more than one million dollars monthly, the expenditure of even a small portion of which would be a great stimulus to retail trade in this city.

Chamber of Commerce.

The Dixon Chamber of Commerce has been actively engaged in efforts to land the encampment for Dixon for some time past, though an effort was made to keep the matter from publication for fear publicity would injure Dixon's chances.

Saturday evening a committee composed of Representative John Devine, Attorney Henry S. Dixon and W. C. Durkes went to Springfield and held a consultation with Adjutant General Dickson and other army officials. The members of the board of administration, in whose hands the colony property is, were consulted.

On Sunday evening a committee of Dixon men held a meeting in Dixon and heard the report of the Springfield committee, and on Monday Attorney Henry Dixon and Col. W. B. Brinton spent the day in Chicago in conference with railroad heads, opening negotiations for transportation facilities, etc.

The Dixon committee has been promised by the military authorities that the committee of military men which is now touring the state inspecting the several sites offered will come to Dixon and visit Dixon's proposed site. This committee inspected the Springfield site and will probably be in Dixon some day this week.

On Sunday evening a committee of several important Illinois cities are making efforts to have the camp located with them. Among those who aspire to the honor are Moline, Alton, Springfield, Elgin and Rockford.

HANG OUT THE FLAG
It is suggested that every citizen of Dixon make a liberal display of Old Glory tomorrow in honor of the visit of the Army Board which will inspect Dixon's site for the cantonment.

It is believed in Dixon that the strongest contenders are: First, Dixon; second, Alton; third, Springfield. Governor Lowden has also offered his large tract of land near Oregon to the government for the camp.

Dixon Prepared.

The main reason why Dixon seems to be the logical location for the camp is that the government is offered the free use of the colony grounds, nearly 1200 acres, which is nearly half of the ground required, and that the colony grounds are already partially equipped for the accommodation of such a camp. There are two splendid wells on the grounds, put down by the state and capable of pumping large quantities of water.

There is a railroad switch track right into the grounds. There is a brick highway right to the grounds and also a street car line.

There is a big bakery and a cold storage plant on the grounds. The administration building would house the division headquarters admirably and the many cottages and buildings on the grounds would do for store houses. The men will be put under canvas and in the winter huts will be built for them.

The sewage and sanitary conditions of the grounds are, of course, excellent. In fact, the Dixon site, with its two and a half miles of river front and its other qualifications, is ideal.

Alton Has Good Chance

The board of administration, when it said the federal government might use the Dixon colony, also said that if the federal government preferred, it might have the Alton site, which puts Alton on nearly an equal footing with Dixon, for that city also has state grounds and state buildings to offer.

Washington Decides.

It will be impossible to learn whether the Dixon site has been selected or rejected until after June 5, at which time the government officials in Washington will decide.

A committee of regular army officers will be in Dixon in the very near future to inspect the Dixon site. They will make up a complete report of the property, which will include a topographical map which is being prepared of the entire 2,500 acres by G. H. T. Shaw. This report will go to the Central Division in Chicago and will be forwarded from there to the war department in Washington where the decision will be made.

Many Requirements.

One of the most important requirements is water of good quality and great quantity. The camp would use several times as much water as is used by the city of Dixon, for there will be more men in the camp than there are residents of Lee county, and the 12,000 head of horses and mules will also require vast quantities of water.

The camp must also be provided with a good rifle range and the topography of the land must be such that it will readily lend itself to the pur-

FLORIDA OF RUSSIA

The Historic Crimean Peninsula of the Black Sea.

HORRORS OF ITS GREAT WAR.

In This Famous Conflict Soldiers Died
Like Flies From Disease and Florence
Nightingale Won Her Crown of Glory on the Battlefield.

"Hanging down into the Black sea like a butcher's cleaver, with its handle pointed east and the near corner of the blade joined to the mainland of Russia, the Crimea, where it was first planned to exile the czar when he abdicated, is about as near to being an island as a peninsula well can be, even though a very narrow strait is the only water that lies between it and a second connection with the mainland. On the one side—to the west—lies the Perekop gulf, and to the east, shut out from the Black sea by the handle of the cleaver, is the sea of Azov."

Thus the Crimea is outlined in a bullet by the National Geographic society from its Washington headquarters for geographic research, concerning this Florida of Russia jutting out into Europe's inland sea.

"With an area matching that of New Hampshire, a population equal to that of New Hampshire and Vermont together and a climate that borrows good features from Florida and southern California and bad ones from many places, the Crimea is one of the most fascinating bits of territory between Portugal and Cochín China. Its populace a congress of races, its industries ranging from the growing of subtropical fruits and the housing of Russia's elite as they flee from the cold, to the herding of sheep and the growing of grain. It is a plate of many sided activities.

"As the men of wealth of America have their winter homes in Florida and those of western Europe have theirs along the Riviera, the people of position in Russia have their country seats in the Crimea. And beautiful places they are, for in Russia the rich are very rich. The height of the social season is from the middle of August to the 1st of November.

"The peninsula is occupied by 855,000 people, according to the last census, mostly Turkish speaking Tartars, with a scattering of Russians, Greeks, Germans and Jews. Cleanliness and morality are said to be proverbial traits of the Crimean Tartars, who have been undergoing the influences of Russification for several generations. They have taken up vine culture, fruit growing and kindred occupations with a zeal seldom equaled east of the Aegean.

"Of course most interesting of all things Crimean are its history, its fortress and its imperial palace. In the second century B. C. the Scythians founded a kingdom there, and the land passed through many changes, now under one sovereignty, and now under another, finally passing to the Tartars, who in turn were brought under the rule of the Turks. In 1783 Russia forced the last khan to abdicate and made the Crimea a part of one of her provinces. The Crimean Tartars, who give the peninsula its name by reason of their substantial admixture of Greek and other bloods, have lost most of the Mongolian features, being slender in build, possessing aquiline noses, eyes that have lost the oriental slant and countenances not quite so inscrutable as the eastern type.

"In the Crimean war, fought by England, France and Turkey against Russia, the final test of strength came at Sebastopol. Here the factors of unlimited resources operated in the allies' favor. Through their command of the sea they could secure everything needed, while the Russians could bring up their supplies only across the barren steppes, whose highways were marked at every step by the dead and the dying, both man and beast.

"The novels of Tolstoy give a graphic picture of the Crimean war from the Russian viewpoint, depicting the miseries of the march, the anguish of the life in the casemates and the nerve destroying ordeal of manning the lines under shellfire, there to await the night attack that might or might not come. It was in this war that Florence Nightingale rendered services as a nurse that made her name a synonym of ministering angel on the world's battlefields. Then men knew nothing of the cause of cholera and such diseases, and the soldiers died like flies. It is estimated that 50,000 British soldiers lie buried in the cemetery outside of Sebastopol.

"The Imperial large palace, to which the dethroned monarch was to retire, is situated at Livadia, surrounded by a magnificent park. It is of recent construction and was completed in 1910. Hard by is the simply constructed small palace, in an upper room of which Alexander III. died. In no other country in the world was the reigning ruler possessed of so many lands or such extensive properties as was the case in Russia."

Guest of Old Comrade

W. C. O. F. Meeting

The W. C. O. F. will hold a regular meeting this evening in K. C. hall.

June 3d at St. Paul's

Sunday, June 3d, will be featured at St. Paul's Lutheran church with two very special services. In the morning Dr. F. D. Altman, the pastor, closes thirty-five years of service as a minister and appropriate services will be held; in the evening the baccalaureate address will be given by Dr. Altman to the members of the Dixon High School graduating class. There will be fitting music for both services given by the large choir under the direction of Mrs. E. M. Goodsell.

In the morning Dr. Altman will review his pastorate from the time when he first entered the field, a young man, and preached his first sermon at Tippicanoe City, Ohio, the scene of his first pastorate, telling of the joys and troubles that come to a pastor during service through the lifetime of a generation, with the emphasis on the former, for Dr. Altman is of the happy class of men who belittle their troubles. Incidents of the years of pastoral service, insofar as they may prove helpful, will be related.

In the evening Dr. Altman will glean from the experiences of a life time for the benefit of the young people of the high school.

Visit Relatives

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Zoeller of Coldwater, Mich., are guests of the families of Edward Zoeller and George Kreitzer, and Mrs. Kaldelsch. They have just returned from Kewanee where they were called by the sad news of the death of Mrs. Zoeller's father, Mr. Quinn. Others who attended the funeral were Mrs. Thomas Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. George Conley, Miss Agnes Conley, and Miss Marvel Gaffney.

Loveland School to Entertain

The Loveland school has planned a social entertainment for Friday evening, the program to be given on a platform at the side of the building, if the weather permits. Interesting parts in the program will be taken by the young people of the school. Ice cream and delicious home-made cakes will be served.

Dinner and Theatre Party

Miss Marcelle Kent entertained with a dinner and theatre party Tuesday evening, Misses Madeline Coover, Pansy Himes, and Anna Holmes. From the Family Theatre the party repaired to a confectionery and enjoyed refreshments.

Visits Mother

Charles Sexton of Missouri is here to visit his mother, Mrs. John Phibbs. Mr. Sexton lived here about two years ago.

For Bride and Bride-to-be

Miss Gladys Gonnernan was the guest of honor at an especially pretty luncheon given Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Walter Fuls by a group of four ladies—Mrs. Fuls, Mrs. Platten, Mrs. George Slothower, and Mrs. Roy Eastman. The guests numbered twenty.

The luncheon decorations were carried out in the effective red and white color scheme. One large and five small tables were arranged, each bearing a centerpiece of red and white carnations and with crystal candlesticks holding red candles disposed about the tables, while at each place a tripod of opera sticks bearing as the witch's kettle a red nut basket, rested. Hearts and Kewpies were also used and at the bride-to-be's table was placed a chair draped in white and tied with red ribbons, which, of course, was meant for the guest of honor. A two course luncheon was served and the case came the surprise of the afternoon when dear little Miss Phyllis Fuls came trundling in her doll buggy, all decked in red and white carrying its precious contents—No not a dolly, but other more rare China, much more suited to fit the requirements of a grown-up girl and a bride-to-be. Plates, cups, pitchers, and other bits of the fragile ware were showered upon Miss Gonnernan.

Miss Gonnernan is to become the bride of Hugh Senneff, a brother of Mrs. Fuls and Mrs. Platten.

This afternoon Mrs. Fuls and Mrs. Platten are again entertaining, this time for Mrs. Oscar Buhler of Palmyra (nee Beth Williams), who is a bride of a few weeks. The same decorations were used at this afternoon's party and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Thirty guests were present, showering Mrs. Buhler also with China, which was presented in the same clever manner as that given Miss Gonnernan. Both affairs were very delightful.

O. E. S. Children's Party

Members of the Order of Eastern Star will give a party for the children of the members on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Masonic Hall. All members of the order with or without children are invited. A brief program will be given and refreshments served and it is planned to make the evening a happy one for children and grown-ups.

St. Paul's Choir

St. Paul's choir will hold a special rehearsal at the church this evening at 7:30. The presence of all is desired.

In Sterling

Miss Marjorie Leslie spent Tuesday evening in Sterling, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Paul Buzzard.

M. E. Choir Rehearsal

An attendance of all the members of the Methodist choir is requested for tomorrow evening's practice at the church. The chorus of thirty or more voices is preparing for a special Memorial Day service Sunday evening.

OUR DEBT TO OTHERS.

Exactly 140 years ago Marquis de Lafayette, 18 years of age and a bridegroom, sailed from France on his own ship with his own troops paid for with his own money to aid the struggling revolutionists in their fight for liberty.

Eight weeks later the congress of the United States accepted Lafayette's services and commissioned him a major-general in the United States army.

At Valley Forge, 20 miles from Philadelphia, may be seen to this day the holes in the ground that served as a foundation for the little log huts in which Washington's tattered and starving army managed to exist during the long winter following Lafayette's arrival.

Magnificent memorials have been erected at Valley Forge to forever preserve for Americans the names of the men who helped America to win her freedom.

In this group no name holds a more cherished position than that of Baron Steuben, the gallant German who in the cause of liberty left his native land and joined Washington.

During the winter of 1777-78 Steuben enthused the little army of 11,000 men in quarters at Valley Forge to supreme effort. Under his direction the disheartened troops were reorganized into a fighting machine. When Spring opened again these forces under Steuben fought with such splendid efficiency that France made an alliance with the colonies and from that time on money and men came without stint.

America has always been the battle ground for freedom. Men from countries ruled by kings and emperors have enlisted under her banner to fight for democracy against autocracy.

WAVING RED FLAGS IN RUSSIA.

It seems to be a great day for Russians. The czar has been ousted, the people are bosses, and they misinterpret liberty into license. They think that each group of soldiers, led with red flags, can do as they see fit. They have yet to learn that democracy insists upon obedience to her laws.

Foreign Minister Milukoff, who sent the recent note to the allies, assuring them of Russia's determination to stand to the end, was the object of a demonstration of soldiers and citizens last week. He exhibited splendid leadership by addressing the mob, turning it from hostile spectators to admiring applauders of the provisional government's efforts. Declaring he was afraid "not of Milukoff, but for Russia," he drove the determination of the new republic home into the minds of the crowd by declaring "Never shall Russia consent to a separate peace."

In an interview he said: "You may tell the American people the Russian situation is well in hand." He further said the new pact Russia signed with the allies "coincided with all democratic plans which include the creation of new national borders, adjustment of the map of Europe on a basis of nationality and the foundation of lasting peace."

Whether the workmen and soldiers will accept the explanation or not is in doubt. It is known they were frankly distrustful, many saying Milukoff had suddenly become a diplomat instead of a democrat. This was caused by the impression that his second note, pledging allegiance to Russia's allies, had abrogated to some extent the first note, which simply said Russia was seeking only to defend its own territory, without thoughts of indemnity or territorial conquest.

INSTRUCTING THOSE WHO MUST REGISTER

employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States, so state.

"If you are a felon or otherwise morally deficient and desire to claim exemption on that ground, state your ground briefly.

"If you claim physical disability, state that briefly.

"If you claim exemption on any other ground, state your ground briefly."

The official guide, of interest to all young men of the country, also says:

"The registrar in a short report which accompanies each registration card is asked to state, 'has the person lost arm, leg, hand, foot, or both eyes or is he otherwise disabled (specify)'."

"It is not intended, however, that the registrar shall pass upon anything but the most obvious physical defects. Persons whose disabilities are so indicated by the registrar will be dropped from the lists, but others who claim exemption on account of physical disabilities are liable to draft in order that their physical condition may be passed on by army surgeons. Claims of exemption upon other than physical grounds will be passed upon by local boards.

"One phase of exemption is more particularly considered in question 9, which asks, 'Have you a father, mother, wife, child under 12, or a sister or brother under twelve years, solely dependent on you for support? Specify which.'"

"Consider your answer thoughtfully. If it is true that there is another mouth than your own which you alone have a duty to feed, do not let your military ardor interfere with the wish of the nation to reduce war misery to a minimum. On the other hand unless the person you have in mind is SOLELY dependent on you do not hide behind petticoats or children.

"It may be noted that if there is a dependent relative not to be classed under question 9, such as grandfather, a grandmother, or an aunt, this may be mentioned in answer to question 12.

"The 4th question in regard to naturalization reads, 'Are you a natural born citizen, a naturalized citizen, an alien, or have you declared your intention (specify which)'."

This question is explained as follows in the guide:

"1. If you were born in the United States including Alaska and Hawaii, you are a natural born citizen no matter what may have been the citizenship or nationality of your parents. If you were born in Porto Rico you are a citizen of the United States unless you were born of alien parentage. If you were born abroad you are still a citizen of the United States if your father was a citizen of the United States at the time you were born, unless you have expatriated yourself.

"2. You are a naturalized citizen if you have completed your naturalization; that is, if you have taken 'final papers.' But you are not a citizen if you have only declared your intention to become a citizen (that is, if you have only 'taken out first papers'); in the latter case you are only a declarant.

"You are also a naturalized citizen if, although foreign born, your father or surviving parent becomes fully naturalized while you were under 21 years of age and if you came to the United States under 21.

"3. You are a declarant if although a citizen or subject of some foreign country, you have declared an oath before a naturalization court your intention to become a citizen of the United States. Receipt from the clerk of the court of the certified copy of such declaration is often called 'taking out first papers.' You are not a declarant if your first papers were taken out after Sept. 26, 1906 and are more than seven years old.

"4. You are an alien if you do not fall within one of the three classes above mentioned."

Alien enemies will be required to register, but undoubtedly will not be drafted.

A companion question is No. 6, "If not a citizen, of what country are you a citizen or subject?"

The official guide points out:

"This need be answered only by aliens and declarants. Remember that a 'declarant' is not yet a citizen of the United States. If an alien or declarant, state the name of your country."

FRENCH TROOPS HAVE GREAT CONFIDENCE

The machine guns cackle, bullets whistle by, shells burst around with a terrible tearing sound, emitting a black smoke from which screeching fragments of steel hurtle through the air. But the waves of men always advance, not stopping even when they come across batches of barbed wire entanglements which have not been broken up by the French artillery. These they go around and take up their alignment on the other side. Then they disappear from view.

6:30 a. m.: The first wounded men begin to arrive and at the same time some prisoners, gaunt and covered with mud.

In the meantime the position has been won."

URBANA WOMAN PAYS TRIBUTE

Tanlac's Most Wonderful Medicine in the World—Highly Pleased

Urbana, Ill., May 23—"Tanlac has made me feel like a new woman and I know it's the most wonderful medicine in the world," Mrs. J. F. Tilbotson, well known Urbana woman of 704 West Park street, said on April 16th.

"The trouble was chiefly with my stomach and liver," she continued. "I simply couldn't find anything to eat and even then the little food I took caused me great distress. I didn't dare to eat anything greasy or sweet, I was so nervous I couldn't sleep soundly. For the last three years I don't believe I averaged more than one good night's sleep each week."

"After reading so much about Tanlac's good work for others I decided to try the new medicine. Tanlac has been a God Send to me. I'm better in every way, since using it. I have a fine appetite now—eat three meals a day—and I don't have to be particular about what I eat. My nerves are built up wonderfully. I get nine hours of good sleep every night now and wake up in the mornings feeling fresh and rested. Tanlac certainly is a wonderful medicine and I heartily recommend it."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrha complaint, loss of appetite, nervousness and the like.

Tanlac is being introduced and explained in Dixon at Campbell's & Son's Drug Store.

CASH vs. CREDIT

We sell Premium Soda Crackers at 18c per lb. cash, the Credit Store at 22 cents. 18c for crackers and four cents for the convenience of a 30 day credit system. The Credit Store sells the use of their capital for four cents. It is too cheap. It should be seven cents because in selling for cash, we invest the same dollar in crackers four times in one month and obtain four discounts on it. The 30 day Credit Store invests the same dollar once a month, obtains one discount and four cents for the credit plan which is three cents less than four discounts. Don't blame the stores. They must sell you what you want and you must pay for it. The cash system enables us to give Extra Specials besides cheap prices on many items.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Kazan, the wild sledge dog, one-quarter wolf and three-quarter husky, distrustful of all men because of his brutal treatment of him, learns to love his master's wife when she is kind to him in new and strange surroundings.

CHAPTER II—He shows snarling enmity to McCready, who is to accompany Thorpe and his wife to the Red River camp.

CHAPTER III—Kazan knows that McCready is a murderer. McCready stealthily caresses Isobel's hair and Kazan attacks him. Thorpe whips Kazan. McCready tries to murder Thorpe and attacks Isobel. Kazan kills him and then, fearing the club in punishment, runs away into the forest.

CHAPTER IV—Torn between love of his mistress, the fear of his master's club and the desire of the wolf nature in him, he at length sends forth the wolf cry.

CHAPTER V—Kazan runs with the wolves, fights their leader, becomes master of the pack, and mates with Gray Wolf.

CHAPTER VI—Kazan and the pack attack Pierre Radisson, his daughter Joan and her baby, but in the battle Kazan turns dog again and helps drive off the wolves.

CHAPTER VII—Kazan's wounds are dressed and he is tied to the sledge.

CHAPTER VIII—Pierre and Kazan drag the sledge. Gray Wolf follows at a distance. Pierre dies, 40 miles away from their home on the Little Beaver.

CHAPTER IX—Out of a blizzard Kazan drags the sledge with Joan and the baby on it to safety, and then goes back to Gray Wolf. He spends the long winter hovering between the lure of Joan and the baby and Gray Wolf.

CHAPTER X—In their den on the top of Sun Rock puppies come to Gray Wolf and Kazan in the spring.

CHAPTER XI—A lynx kills the puppies and blinds Gray Wolf. Kazan kills the lynx. Joan and her husband go away to the South. Kazan stays with Gray Wolf.

CHAPTER XII—Kazan and Gray Wolf travel. He is eyes to her and she is ears and nose to him.

CHAPTER XIII—Paul Weyman, scientist, and Henri Lott, trapper, capture and imprison Kazan and Gray Wolf. Weyman is permitted by Kazan to pet him, but Gray Wolf sulks and goes on a hunger strike. Weyman quietly releases them in the dead of night.

CHAPTER XIV—Sandy McTrigger shoots Kazan and discovers from the collar on the neck that it is a dog and not a wolf that he has wounded.

CHAPTER XV—Sandy muzzles Kazan while he is unconscious and afterwards clubs and tortures the dog into sullen submission. They travel to Red Gold City and Sandy matches Kazan against a Great Dane for a finish fight.

CHAPTER XVI—The dog refuses to fight. A Northwest Mounted sergeant prevents their owners from killing them. A Smithsonian Institution scientist buys them both for sledge dogs.

CHAPTER XVII—Blind and alone Gray Wolf finds Kazan along the river bed to keep from starving and her instinct guides her back to Sun Rock to wait for Kazan.

CHAPTER XVIII—Sandy follows Professor McGill to rob and murder him. Kazan, tied at the front door, saves Sandy, the restraining collar breaks, and the dog slips like a shadow back into freedom. The professor kills Sandy.

CHAPTER XIX.

An Empty World.

Mike after Mike Kazan went on. For a time he was oppressed by the shivering note of death that had come to him in Sandy McTrigger's cry, and he slipped through the banks like a shadow, his ears flattened, his tail trailing, his hindquarters betraying that curious sinking quality of the wolf and dog stealing away from danger. Then he came out upon a plain, and the stillness, the billion stars in the clear vault of the sky, and the keen air that carried with it a breath of the Arctic barrens made him alert and questioning. He faced the direction of the wind. Somewhere off there, far to the south and west, was Gray Wolf.

For the first time in many weeks he sat back on his haunches and gave the deep and vibrant call that echoed weirdly for miles about him. Back in the banks of the big Dane heard it, and whined. From over the still body of Sandy McTrigger the little professor looked up with a white tense face, and listened for a second cry. But instinct told Kazan that to that first call there would be no answer, and now he struck out swiftly, galloping mile after mile, as a dog follows the trail of its master home. He did not turn back to the lake, nor was his direction toward Red Gold City. As straight as he might have followed a road blazed by the hand of man he cut across the forty miles of plain and swamp and forest and rocky ridge that lay between him and the McFarlane. All that night he did not call again for Gray Wolf. With him reasoning was a process brought about by habit—by precedent—and as Gray Wolf had waited for him many times before he knew that she would be waiting for him now near the sandbar.

By dawn he had reached the river, within three miles of the sandbar. Scarcely was the sun up when he stood on the white strip of sand where he and Gray Wolf had come down to drink. Expectantly and confidently he looked about him for Gray Wolf, whining softly, and wagging his tail. He began to search for her scent, but rains had washed even her footprints from the clean sand. All that day he searched for her along the river and out on the plain. He went to where they had killed their first rabbit. He sniffed at the bushes where the poison balts had hung. Again and again he sat back on his haunches and sent out his mating cry to her. And slowly, as he did these things, nature was working in him that miracle of the wild which the Crees have named the "spirit call." As it had worked in Gray Wolf, so now it stirred the blood of Kazan.

With the going of the sun, and the sweeping about him of shadowy night, he turned more and more to the south and east. His whole world was made up of the trails over which he had hunted. Beyond those places he did not know that there was such a thing as existence. And in that world, small in his understanding of things, was Gray Wolf. He could not miss her. That world, in his comprehension of it, ran from the McFarlane in a narrow trail through the forests and over the plains to the little valley. If Gray Wolf was not here—she was there, and tirelessly he resumed his quest of her.

Not until the stars were fading out of the sky again, and gray day was giving place to night, did exhaustion and hunger stop him. He killed a rabbit, and for hours after he had feasted he lay close to his kill, and slept. Then he went on.

The fourth night he came to the little valley between the two ridges, and under the stars, more brilliant now in the chill clearness of the early autumn nights, he followed the creek down into their old swamp home. It was broad day when he reached what had once been his home and Gray Wolf's, and for many minutes Kazan stood silent and motionless sniffing the air. Until now his spirit had remained unbroken. Footsore, with thinned sides and gaunt head, he circled slowly through the swamp. All that day he searched. And his crest lay flat now, and there was a hunted look in the droop of his shoulders and in the shifting look of his eyes. Gray Wolf was gone.

Slowly nature was impinging that fact upon him. She had passed out of his world and out of his life, and he was filled with a loneliness and a grief so great that the forest seemed strange, and the stillness of the wild a thing that now oppressed and frightened him. Once more the dog in him was mastering the wolf. With Gray Wolf he had possessed the world of freedom. Without her, that world was so big and strange and empty that it appalled him.

Late in the afternoon he came upon a little pile of crushed clam shells on the shore of the stream. He sniffed at them—turned away—went back, and sniffed again. But the scent she had left behind was not strong enough to tell Kazan, and for a second time he turned away. That night he slunk under a log, and cried himself to sleep. Deep in the night he grieved in his uneasy slumber, like a child. And day after day, and night after night, Kazan remained a sinking creature of the big swamp, mourning for the one creature that had brought him out of chaos into light, who had filled his world for him, and who, in going from him, had taken from this world even the things that Gray Wolf had lost in her blindness.

Chablis.

Chablis is one of the most typically French towns in all France. It lies in the heart of a region of famous vineyards, it has given its name to a famous wine; all the land and the air and the sky seem especially designed by providence to afford a proper luscious ripening to the big grapes that hang in great clusters from the gnarled black vine stumps. Chablis expresses itself in its wine. All the smooth lazy days, the long warm afternoons, the cool music of the little river and the hot blue of the sky seem to find their way into the casks, and the glasses that the people of Chablis sip leisurely in the inn of an evening.

All about Chablis lie the gentle rounded slopes of the vineyards, fragrant six months in the year with the various stages of the ripening grapes. The river winds its lazy way along the shallow valley, bordered by the inevitable French poplars, that stand stiff and straight in the clear sunlight. Long white roads—the endless straight white roads of France—stretch to the horizon on either hand. Chablis is like a lonely head on a long white cord in its relation to these dusty roads.

LIFE AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Our Firm Democracy Has Killed Its Early "Court" Flavor.

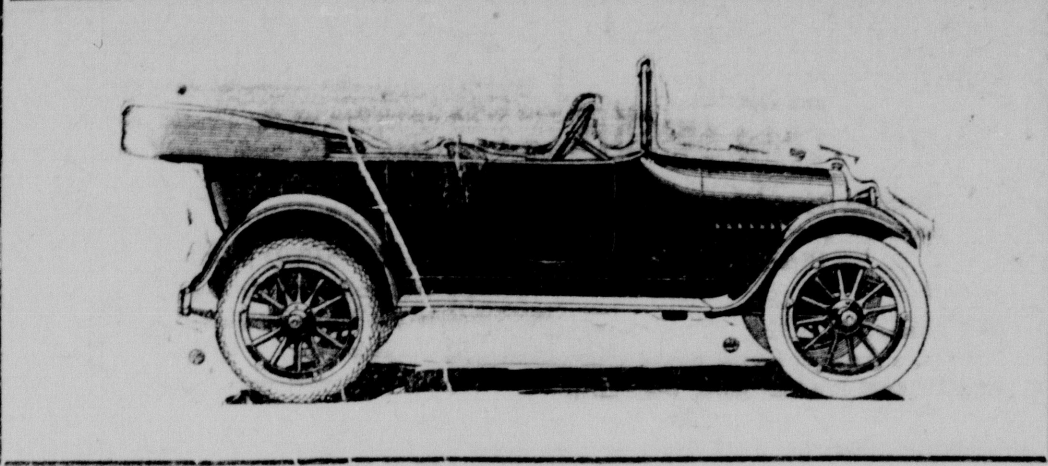

The White House is far and away the most desirable residence to get at the national capital. It is the most personal, most picturesque of the government's possessions. Its history is the history of many of our American ideals.

In the early days of the Virginian dynasty of presidents there were "levees" and "drawing rooms" at the White House, and it sheltered something very like a court. The court ideal dies hard. Even now the red velvet rope, which in more effete civilization separates the social sheep from the goats, is occasionally almost put into use when new administrations try to have receptions where the privileged few are allowed a brief encounter with the royal presence in the blue room, serving temporarily as a holy of holies.

The White House, as is natural, is the constant theater of the conflict to be observed everywhere in American life between our wish to have an aristocracy and our wish not to. But on the whole, the disinterested observer must adjudge victory to our deep seated democracy, which makes it really unsuitable that the White House should ever be exactly fashionable.

We forget not only that the presidential residence is our house, but that the president in it is our man. The almost utopian democracy of public receptions at the White House is both engaging and picturesque. In the early days congressmen used to come to them with bowie knives in their high, cowhide boots, and in Jackson's time guards with stout sticks beat back the guests while the food was being fetched from the kitchens. Then an evening party had all the charm of a riot. A diplomat complained not so long ago that even at the exclusive reception for the corps the American young ladies surreptitiously cut all the buttons off his clothes for souvenirs.

Another diplomat, new to these democratic shores, arriving late for a New Year's day reception, was astonished to find that the negro hackman who had driven him to the White House had slipped in ahead of him and was the first to grasp the president's hand! He could not understand that the executive hand is as much the people's property as the mansion. Mr. Washington did not shake hands, but since then every presidential paw has been squeezed by the populace almost beyond the power of flaxseed poultices or massage to bring it back to anything like original shape. The shake is expected to be wholesome and hearty—even a Boston gentleman complained, under Tyler's administration, that he had caught cold from shaking the president's hand.—Harrison Rhodes in Harper's Magazine.

The material of the safe is Corliss-magnesian steel of seven different varieties all in one solid cast so not a crack is found except the opening for the door. This is absolutely airtight when closed as it screws into the safe, and measures 20 inches from the outside wall to the inside. LISTEN TO THIS! SAYS CORNS LIFT RIGHT OUT NOW

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers.

It is a sticky ether compound which dries the moment it is applied and simply shrivels the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.
